

EarthHeart.com.au Mission and Philosophy by Jason Betts 2012

"Let the one see the many and evoke a feeling feedback of hope and care, reminding us that, even though we cannot know everyone, we are still One."

One World - One Earth - One Heart

The Meaning of Life

To find your life's purpose and achieve your destiny, to cultivate and appreciate happiness within one's self,
to communicate that happiness and share it with others,
to produce, protect and teach all our collective offspring.

How to Find Happiness

Enjoy and participate in the simple pleasures of life, follow your moral conscience to avoid regrets and guilt, achieve and share success by creating values for self and others, search for long term pleasure and choose to avoid long term pain, and fill your soul with acceptance, gratitude and compassion for others.

Rights and Duties

It is the unassailable right of the individual to speak their free opinion and not be persecuted for it, and the unassailable duty of the country to defend and uphold the individual's right of free speech.

It is the unassailable right of the individual to choose their own religion and not be persecuted for it, and the unassailable duty of the country to defend and uphold the individual's right to legal religion.

It is the unassailable right of the individual to choose their medical care and not be persecuted for it, and the unassailable duty of the country to defend and uphold the individual's right of medical choice.

It is the unassailable right of the individual to not create direct harm and not be persecuted for it, and the unassailable duty of the country to defend and uphold the individual's right to nonviolence.

It is the unassailable right of the individual to defend themselves and family and not be persecuted for it, and the unassailable duty of the country to defend and uphold the individual's right to personal defense.

It is the unassailable right of the individual to privacy and non-disclosure and not be persecuted for it, and the unassailable duty of the country to defend and uphold the individual's right to personal privacy.

It is the unassailable duty of the individual to adhere to and abide by the governmental laws of the land, and the unassailable right of the country to create such fair laws so as to defend and uphold individual rights.